Jesus died to save the planet

Lecture by Paul Kunert

In this lecture Paul considers how a full biblical account of the death and resurrection of Jesus compels us to make a response to the climate and nature crises a central part of our response to the Gospel. He will also diagnose why the flourishing of creation remains stubbornly peripheral – against the purposes of God – to the life of most churches and set out a way forward for any church that wants to see following Jesus for the flourishing of all creation – human society and non-human creation – integrated into the everyday lives of its people.

Paul has been working in Africa's electricity sector for the last 25 years in various senior leadership roles, developing, financing, building, and managing major power plants in countries all over the continent. He is a chartered accountant and has a degree in economics and politics.

For a long time – far too long – he'd seen 'climate change' as a secondary concern, not something very high on God's to-do list. Either world leaders were on top of it, or it wasn't that big of an issue anyway. Or worse still, maybe God wasn't that bothered.

When the truth about climate and ecological breakdown – and God's purpose for his creation and the full extent of the work of Christ on the cross – finally hit home, he realised he couldn't have been more wrong.

Andy Kind, the Christian 'Promedian' (preacher and comedian) is coming to The Pateley Bridge & Bewerley Memorial Hall, and we wanted to extend a warm invitation to friends from local churches, and any you know who may like to come and join us, for an evening of great comedy. Andy's shows are very much community occasions and this would be a good event to which to invite anyone you know who is exploring the Christian faith.

Doors open at 7.00 pm: just turn up on the night.

I have attached a couple of posters / flyers; please do feel free to print off these or use them in your social media posts, if you would like to advertise the event further. It would be lovely to have you join us. No pre-booking required - just turn up on the evening. Entry is free and refreshments will be served.
